

THE KHUP FAMILY

WEST CHICAGO, IL

John, Maria and their children

John and Maria Khup, formerly known as Do, moved to the United States in 2009 from Burma. They wanted to provide a better life for their three children and have the American dream. John was working odd jobs and trying to provide for their family but finally secured employment for the last two years at NOW in Bloomingdale. John had heard about Habitat for Humanity while driving by the office one day on his way home from work. John stopped inside and stayed for the informational session. While learning more about the program, he became extremely interested and started the process.

The DuPage Habitat for Humanity affiliate welcomed the Khup family into the homeownership program on April 2, 2015. They are excited about the opportunity to perform “sweat equity” and are always happy and smiling at Habitat events. They have been working extremely hard over the last two years to maintain employment, pay down debt, and save for their American dream home. On June 5th, DuPage Habitat for Humanity offered a single family home to the Khup family.
